THIS ONCE EXCLUSIVE PRIVATE CLUB IS NOW OPEN TO THE PUBLIC!

On the edge of Pennsylvania's beautiful Laurel Highlands in Somerset County lies golf legend Arnold Palmer's first ever golf course design, now known as the Golf Club at Indian Lake ("GCIL"). It is constructed on the peninsula of the 24-mile circumference man-made 'Indian Lake'. The first nine holes of the par-72, 6,700-yard course opened in the late 1960's, kick starting Palmer's long and distinguished career in golf course design. The front 9 holes were then added in 1995-1996, thus completing the first 18-hole golf course designed by local and international legend, Mr. Arnold Palmer.

More than 300 golf courses (in 37 states, 25 countries, and 5 continents) around the world now bear Palmer's name. GCIL offers 18 challenging tree lined holes with spectacular panoramic views of Indian Lake and the Windmill Turbines. There are numerous ponds with beautiful landscaping, along with peaceful and relaxing cart path rides through the woods, making this course very charming and scenic with wildlife, as Pennsylvania and The Laurel Highlands is well recognized for.

In addition to the 18-hole championship track, GCIL also offers a full length driving range with its signature water tower target, the Foursome Grill...a cozy 10-seat bar, a spacious club room to host post-outing activities, and an oversized outdoor deck with comfortable seating which overlooks the 9th hole, 18th hole, and the putting green.

Located just off the historic Lincoln Highway (Route 30), GCIL is close to many area attractions including the Flight 93 Memorial Site & Chapel, The Quecreek Mine Rescue Site, and countless outdoor activities that the Laurel Highlands has to offer. The remarkable layout and dramatic design of the course offers an exciting and challenging experience.

New ownership has recently taken over the formerly private Indian Lake Golf Club. The trio of Greg Ortman, PhD, PGA, Anthony Augustine, and James Brown are very proud and excited for the adventure and commitment of keeping this piece of golfing history alive.

The new management staff proudly asserts a combined 90-years of experience in the golf industry. It consists of: Greg Ortman, PGA, Director of Operations; Melanie Ortman, Food & Beverage Manager; and Charles Oster, GCSAA, Grounds Superintendent.

Brunswick Islands, North Carolina

By Tom Poljak

Peace, tranquility and incredible southern hospitality. Now that I have your attention, I'm actually talking about an amazing golf experience. Brunswick Islands, North Carolina is an intoxicating mix of all of the above and will never disappoint. While you do your best to avoid the sand during your round, you will marvel at some of the best beaches on the east coast.

Brunswick Islands provides an incredible golf experience along with some of the finest seafood in the world. Just a 30 minute drive from Myrtle Beach, Brunswick Islands gives you all that Myrtle does without the congestion and aggravation. Nestled just north of the South Carolina boarder, Brunswick Islands is the ideal golf and vacation destination.

Brunswick Islands, North Carolina combines six wonderful barrier island towns. Sunset Beach, Ocean Isle Beach, Holden Beach, Oak Island, Caswell Beach and Bald Head Island offer something for everyone including an incredible mild magazine, Cape Fear National is a short drive from the airport and perfect start to any golf trip. Architect Tim Cate made great use of this magnificent piece of land. This tree lined layout rolls through gorgeous wetlands and statuesque pines, maples and meticulous magnolias.

Sea Trail Resort makes the all-important decision of where to stay a no brainer. Located in Sunset Beach, this 54 hole golf oasis also offers 45,000 square feet of meeting space surrounded by over 2,000 acres of scenic streams, serene lakes and woodlands. The villas and guest rooms are climate that makes it is easy to coordinate a week of great golf year round.

Whether you're driving or flying into Wilmington from the Tri-State area, your first stop should be Cape Fear National. Recently named the "#11 Best Course You Can Play in NC" by Golfweek adjacent to three great golf courses. The Dan Maples Course which opened in 1985 and has five holes that border the Calabash Creek. The Reese Jones Course has water coming into play on 11 of 18 holes, but offers generous fairways and landing areas. Last but not least, The Willard Byrd

Course is another beautiful and challenging course that features several man-made lakes that range from 14 to 20 acres each.

We also suggest you bring a healthy appetite to Brunswick Islands, North Carolina for your golf vacation. There are several incredible seafood restaurants and two are simply mandatory. Twin Lakes Seafood, at Sunset Beach, and Jinks Creek Waterfront Grill, at Ocean Isle Beach. Both are short drives from Sea Trail Resort and offer incredible views, fantastic southern hospitality and the freshest of seafood. May we suggest you cap off your perfect day and amazing meal with a chartered tour of the intercostal waterway for an unbelievable view of the sunset. Contact Ocean Isle Fishing Center and one of their skilled captains will offer a history lesson of the region or simply allow you to sit back with your group and enjoy the view.

Brunswick Islands offers 120 miles of fairways, 585 holes of golf, 15 renowned course architects and 45 miles of glorious beach. They say nothing's perfect but as far as a golf destination, this is as good as it gets. From the budget conscious casual player to those who want to put their skills to the test, Brunswick Islands have the courses and accommodations to match every group's needs. There just aren't enough hours in the day or days in the week to play all of these amazing tracks. In addition to the Sea Trail Courses, may we suggest considering River's Edge and Compass Pointe. These are two gems that we played and really enjoyed.

Compass Point is just 10 minutes from Wilmington, NC and is one of the newest golf courses in this region. Rick Robbins, who worked with Jack Nicklaus for many years, designed this course. Tees range from 5,000 – 7,000 yards. They also offer family tees that will configure any hole to be played as a Par 3. This is an incredible layout and the course is always in impeccable shape.

Rivers Edge offers an Arnold Palmer design that saddles up next to the Shallotte River. With five sets of tee boxes, the course can comfortably fit the skill level of every golfer. This course is a perennial top-20 course in North Carolina. Rivers Edge is also the home of “Arnie’s Revenge” (9th hole). You simply won’t be able to get enough of this fun but fair layout. The challenge combined with the playability bring players back year after year.

If you’re looking for all of the trappings of a big time Myrtle Beach like golf trip without the hassle of securing tee times and finding the right place to eat, Brunswick Islands is perfect. The tremendous variety of courses, great accommodations and the laid back, vacation-like feel is what our group just loved. They call it a golf vacation for a reason. The only stress should come from a tough, downhill, five footer with a foot and a half of break to save par and win your match. Brunswick Islands, North Carolina is a wonderful day at the beach with a little championship golf and fine dining thrown in. All you need to do is bring your clubs and some sun screen. ■

By Tom Beeler

As I write this article there are about six weeks of summer left and the golf season is starting to wind down. Before you know it, we will be playing fall golf and to tell you the truth, I think that is my favorite time of the year to play. The scenery changes with all the colors, the greens speeds can be amped up, players can start in the morning wearing a sweater and be in short sleeves by 10am. It is just a nice time to play golf here in Western Pennsylvania.

How is your game this year? Have you gotten better or just coasting around not seeing much improvement? I have spent a lot of time giving lessons this season. I put out a lesson special for the Christmas holiday and sold around 275 three hour packages to my customers. So as I wind down on my over 800 hours on the lesson tee this season here are some of things that I have learned.

One of the first things that I ask my students is “what are you hoping that we can do for your game with the time you are going to spend with me?” Almost every single student says, “I would like to be more consistent.” The first thing that I try to explain is that they are already pretty consistent. They set themselves in the same posture (that may or may not be right), they grip the club the same way (that may or may not be right), and they do all sorts of things the same way (that may or may not be right). I’m sure you can understand what I’m saying. The problem is that golf is not a game that lends itself to consistency. Even at the tour level, if players were able to be consistent, you would see the same player winning every week. Some play more consistently than others, but they don’t win every time they tee it up. Tiger Woods has the best winning percentage of all the tour players that are still alive. As of July 2016, he has 79 wins in 324 events giving him a 24.2 percent winning percentage. As a golfer that is phenomenal and those statistics for a major league pitcher would mean unemployment. The closest player to him at that point was Phil Mickelson with 42 wins in 542 events, 7.75 winning percentage. So, what does all that mean to the regular player? It means that even the guys and girls that are playing the game professionally and work on their games every day have a hard time being consistent. What chance does the regular player have? I ask all my students before the first lesson, "How much have you been practicing?" The answers are sometimes funny, "I just play", "I don't have time", "do you mean hit balls?" very rarely does someone say they hit a bucket of balls a week. I started asking "when was the last time you hit a bucket of balls?" you get a look like you just asked them when the last time they went to confession.

Getting better doesn't involve beating balls like a madman, but it helps. It helps even more if you have some structure and are practicing the right things. Beating balls for the sake of beating balls does not help if the player is not working on something that is going to make their ball striking better. If you want to get better you have to learn how to be more consistent and players need to be prepared to handle his/her inconsistencies because they are going to happen. You can be sailing along hitting good shots, knocking on the greens and hitting good putts, then you get a little nervous, swing a little too quick and hit a screaming duck hook into the left woods. Now what? The player usually will call themselves a few names, maybe tosses a club, then the heart rate goes up and adrenaline is flowing. This is the point where the player needs to calm themselves and make sure that they hit a good solid shot that puts them back in play and not the "Hail Mary" shot that they probably can't pull off anyway. Here is a good rule of thumb, if you are looking at a very difficult shot and you don't think that you can pull off that shot 8 out of 10 times, hit the safe shot.

So, here are my thoughts about striving to be consistent...don't worry about it. Looking for perfection killed Tiger's game, he was one of the best players who has ever played the game. He won the US Open at Pebble Beach by 15 shots! 15 shots seriously! A skinny little punk with no fear and probably not that many thoughts in his head other than to knock down his opponents and stepping on their heads when he could. He had something to prove, he wanted to win, then something happened. He started bulking up for more power, started searching for the perfect swing. When he won by 15 his swing wasn't perfect, but it surely wasn't broken!

Have fun with your game, know that you are going to be inconsistent and learn to deal with it. Ben Hogan used to say that the guy that won was the guy that had the best misses because in his mind, if it didn't go in the hole, it was a miss. Swing your swing as Arnie would say, hit it and chase it, find it and hit it again. If you want to narrow where you are going to miss the ball, come see me or your local PGA Professional. ■

11TH ANNUAL & FATHER SON GOLF CLASSIC RESULTS

It was another success for the 11th annual Father & Son Golf Classic Saturday, August 5th. This event has proven to be one of the more popular events in the Pittsburgh region and was "Sold Out" again this year. It attracts golfers from near and far for this 2-Person Scramble.

Many "Father and Son" events are strict with who can play. This event has had mothers, daughters, uncles, grandfathers and of course fathers and sons participate in the event over the years. "For me it is important to allow any parent figure who wants to play with someone who is important to them," added Poljak.

This annual event is always held at Cedarbrook golf course in Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania. The event alternates yearly between the Red Course and the Gold Course. They are able to change the course yearly without changing the venue. "The entire staff at Cedarbrook have always been fantastic to work with and we greatly appreciate all that they do for our event," said Poljak.

To add to the excitement, Tom Poljak and Tom Beeler broadcast their "Tom & Tom" ESPN Radio show "live" at Cedarbrook every year for the event. They broadcast from 8 to 9 a.m. before the event and the event always starts at 9:30 a.m. The event offers a skill prize on every hole for both the fathers and the sons. This and other aspects of this event are what makes it unique. Not many events give prizes on every hole, especially for both players.

If interested in playing in the 2018 Father & Son Golf Classic look for information in the spring issue of Golfer's Lifestyle Magazine that is due out in March 2018 or check out www.golferslifestyle.com.

How did you get your start in the golf industry?

Passed my players ability test in 2002, then started working as an cart attendant at Spring Valley Country Club. Then was accepted as an Assistant Golf Professional at Uniontown Country Club in 2003.

In the bag...

Driver: Callaway Epic 10.5

Woods: Callaway Epic 5,7

Irons: Steelhead Oros 5-PW

Putter: Odyssey #7

Handicap: Golf, LOL

Golf superstitions: Blue pen to mark the golf ball with a WV.

This is the next in our series in Golfer's Lifestyle Magazine where we introduce you to one of the Pros of one of our featured courses. Find out how they got their start in the golf industry, special interests and general fun facts. Western PA and the surrounding area is the home of some incredible golf courses. Nowhere else will you find the friendly ownership groups that you'll find in our region.

Funniest/most strange golf story: Playing at Paintsville Country Club in Kentucky with my dad and two of his friends. On number ten you have to hit your tee shot across the big sand river. Then you have to cross over on a swinging bridge to get to the other side. The bridge is 150 feet to the water. Dad starts swinging the bridge to the point we can't cross. His buddies in front of us were screaming for him to stop and were threatening to beat us up. After 5 minutes goes by, we finally proceeded across to play. They were too torn up to play, but we got a great laugh out of it.

SIDE GAMES

Back when I was coaching college golf I was always looking for ways to boost my player's confidence. I had a game that I came up (I'm sure I stole it from someone else's idea) that I used with my players. I would make them play the forward tees (I didn't call them the ladies tees so they wouldn't get upset) and have them play a one man scramble. Back then I think we called it "Do over". The game went like this, all players were playing their own ball, and they were permitted to hit a second shot from anywhere if they didn't like their first one. They had to keep their score with their original ball and a score with the shots from the do overs. We all know the "second player" is always more relaxed and hits better shots, the anxiety from the first shot is over. Playing from the forward tees allowed the players to be hitting lots of wedges and hopefully they were making lots of birdies. This exercise was designed to show the player how low they could go if they relaxed and hit good shots instead of worrying about the outcome of the shots. My players always liked the days that we would do this, it gave them a chance to show off a little. Try it with your foursome, you will be surprised at how low you can go.

B B BLACKBEAR GARAGE FLOORS

We offer six different styles of garage flooring tiles, 14 standard colors, and limitless custom color options. Our floors are great for garages, basements, porches, patios, and more. Our installation requires no glues or chemicals, messes or toxic fumes. All our products are backed by a 15-year manufacturer warranty.

Epoxy Flooring vs. Modular Garage Flooring

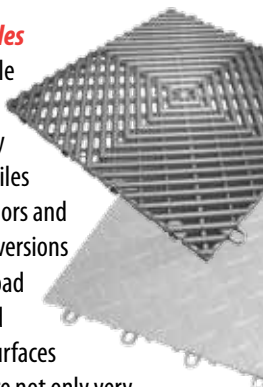

Epoxy flooring and painted garage coatings

Coatings include floor paints, epoxy paint, stains, and sealers, all of which can emit toxic fumes. There are thousands of various coating options in the market with no clear leader. Properly applied coatings can protect against stains, road salts, some chemicals, and moisture penetration. But most coatings fail for several reasons, which include poor quality coatings, damp concrete, improper floor prep, hot tires, and breach in concrete vapor barrier (concrete is like a sponge where moisture migrates to the surface, causing blisters in your coatings). Another disadvantage of coatings is that they require days of meticulous floor prep. You will also need to repair cracks, holes, and other surface problems and then finally etch the concrete with muriatic acid to leave it completely clean and penetrable.

Proudly made in the USA

Modular Garage Floor Tiles

These are made of a durable high-impact copolymer that can handle very heavy vehicle loads. Our garage tiles come in many different colors and styles, including open-rib versions that drain spills and wet road slop, eliminating mold and mildew issues. Solid top surfaces with tread patterns that are not only very high-tech looking but offer great slip resistance in slick areas. They're easy to clean and are much more chemical-resistant than paints and epoxies. Typical installation for our modular garage flooring in a residential two car garage can be done in less than one day.
